

If Sinclair gets away with controlling what Nightline can show, and forcing their stations to show the worst sort of political material, we are one step closer to control of the media by a few, serving their own self interests.